

Thursday, 05 October de 2023

International University Congress of Communication, Innovation, Research and Teaching (XIII Edition)

Learning to cook as a tourist activity: a systematic review of the literature

On behalf of the University of Lleida, the doctors: Estela Mariné Roig and Natalia Daries Ramon will attend and present a project: Learning to cook as a tourist activity: a systematic review of the literature.

The International University Conference on Communication in the Profession and in Today's University: Content, Research, Innovation and Teaching (CUICIID), will be held on October 4, 5 and 6, 2023. In its virtual and online mode, brings together researchers and professionals from around the world for the thirteenth time.

This Congress can be framed among those with greater academic impact, under the concept of 'Quality of teacher training', for combining innovation and teaching and, thanks to the review by double-blind peers of the works presented, its results are comparable to those of more curricular value. Accepts texts in: Spanish, English, Italian, French and Portuguese.

